

'This is not exposure. This is independence.'

YOU DON'T KNOW WHAT YOU'RE BEING OVERCHARGED.

A seven-day sourcing immersion on real mill floors across Coimbatore, Tirupur, Erode and Salem — where the price of everything you buy is set, and where nobody has ever let you watch.

ALL-INCLUSIVE

This is not a course. Not a tour. It is access.

The kind of access that usually costs years of failed sourcing, broker markups, and wasted sampling budgets. Seven days, fifteen people, owner-level entry to the floors that set your costs.

You leave with the one thing no trader will ever sell you: the ability to know what fabric actually costs, what a factory can actually do, and when a supplier is bluffing.

What this costs vs. what you've already lost

Run the arithmetic yourself. Take one season's volume. Multiply by the broker margin buried in every quote you've ever signed — the one you never saw, because it was folded into the per-piece price before it reached you.

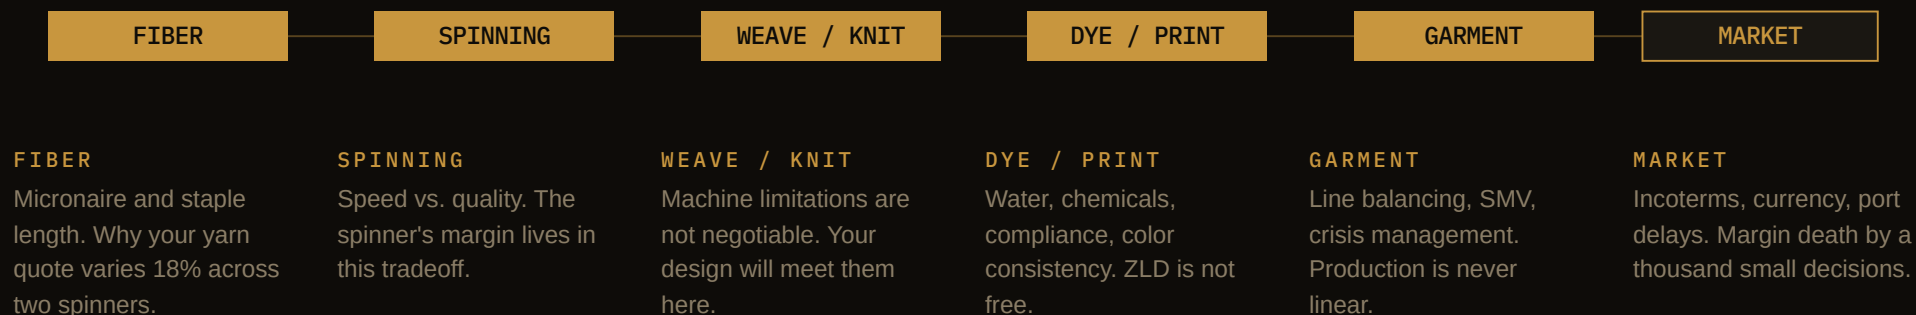

If you've sourced through a trader even once, the number on this page is already smaller than what you handed over without knowing it. The fee is $2,900, once. Knowing what fabric actually costs is worth that every season you keep buying.

WHAT YOU WALK OUT WITH

- 12+ verified mill & supplier contacts — owner-level access, not factory admin.
- 100% ex-mill pricing benchmarks — Yarn → Fabric → Processing, the full chain.
- Real MOQs, timelines and capacity — the floor's version, not the sales team's.
- Zero broker dependency — source direct the day you leave.
- Negotiation leverage — know when a supplier is bluffing on lead time or cost.
- Technical literacy — design products factories want to make. Fewer rejections, lower defects.

The factories are the syllabus.

You will walk the full value chain — fiber to market — and watch where every rupee of cost is added.

SEVEN DAYS ON THE FLOOR

THE WEEK, DAY BY DAY.

No sanitized walkways. Each day follows one link in the chain — from raw fiber to the costed garment that ships. You watch the cost build, link by link.

DAY 01

01

COIMBATORE · CALIBRATION

Arrival & how to read a mill.

You land in Coimbatore and start where most buyers never do — with what to actually look at on a floor. Machinery, throughput, where margin hides, what a quote leaves out.

By evening you have a framework: the questions that separate a real cost from a story.

FLOOR: Orientation · benchmark-reading

DAY 02

02

THE SOURCE · SPINNING

Fiber & yarn — where price begins.

Inside a spinning mill: micronaire, staple length, and how fiber quality dictates the final garment price. You see why the same count quotes 18% apart across two spinners.

Speed versus quality is a real tradeoff, and the spinner's margin lives inside it. You learn to find it.

FLOOR: Spinning mill · ex-mill yarn pricing

DAY 03

03

ERODE • WEAVE / KNIT

The structure — speed vs. design.

On the powerloom and knitting floors of the Erode belt, you meet the physical limits of the machine. Design complexity costs speed, and speed is money.

Machine limitations are not negotiable. Your design will meet them here — better to meet them now than in a rejected sample.

FLOOR: Weaving / knitting • capacity & MOQ

DAY 04

04

PROCESSING • DYE / PRINT

The transformation — the chemical reality.

Inside a dyeing and printing house: water usage, effluent treatment, color matching under pressure. Sustainability stops being a concept the moment you see the cost of Zero Liquid Discharge.

Color consistency across lots is where many orders quietly fail. You see why, and what it costs to get right.

FLOOR: Dye / print • compliance & ZLD

DAY 05

05

TIRUPUR · GARMENT

The assembly — production is never linear.

On a garment line in Tirupur: line balancing, SMV, bottleneck identification, and the human element of production. You watch how a floor manager handles a line when something breaks.

Production is taught as linear and logical. In reality it is chaotic, circular, and run on crisis management. You see the real version.

FLOOR: Garment factory · SMV & line balancing

DAY 06

06

SALEM · MARKET & COSTING

The business — where margin dies.

The last link: logistics and costing. Incoterms, currency fluctuation, port delays — the thousand small decisions that quietly kill margin between the factory gate and your warehouse.

You learn to read a landed cost the way a trader does, so no one can build a story around the gap again.

FLOOR: Logistics & costing · landed price

07

SYNTHESIS · YOUR MAP

Build your own supplier map.

The chain assembles. You leave with 12+ verified contacts, ex-mill benchmarks across the whole value chain, and your own sourcing map — no trader, no broker, no markup standing between you and the floor.

You walk out able to source direct the day you leave. That is the deliverable.

FLOOR: Debrief · supplier map & network handover
